

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A call in request is transmitted from a wireless base station to a wireless communication terminal apparatus when there is a call in from a service center.

- 5 If the wireless communication terminal apparatus does not respond, the wireless base station is reset and, after the reset is completed, a call in request is transmitted to the wireless communication terminal apparatus again. In addition, if out of standby occurs,
- 10 the wireless communication terminal apparatus notifies the wireless base station to that effect and the wireless base station changes a forward pattern of a notification signal.

400349 12404